Dear Managing Editor

We would like to submit our manuscript entitled "Changes of resistant starch content and glycemic index of pre-gelatinized gayam (Inocarfus fagifer Forst.) flour" for publication as a research paper in Pakistan Journal of Nutrition.

The manuscript is one of the stages of dissertation research entitled "Gayam (Inocarfus fagifer Forst.) flour: measurement of the glycemic index, identification of functional properties, modification of flour and nutrition assessment in vitro and in vivo". The objectives of this research stage were to study the changes of resistant starch content and glycemic index of gayam flour with pre-gelatinization treatment.

Previous research on gayam flour has focused primarily on the physicochemical properties. The information of the resistant starch content and glycemic index value from pre-gelatinized gayam flour are essential in providing a sound scientific basis for the development of new food products, especially related to the use of food for diabetes mellitus prevention.

We confirm that this manuscript has not been published elsewhere and is not under consideration by another journal. All authors have approved the manuscript and agree with submission to Pakistan Journal of Nutrition.

We look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Yours sincerely
Agus Wijanarka
