ABSTRACT

Background: DSME is a process to provide knowledge, skills and abilities needed for self-care in diabetic patients. Compliance is very important to determine the success of treatment in diabetes so that complications do not occur. One of the media to convey DSME is the DSME pocket book.

Objective: To determine the effect of the DSME pocket book on blood sugar control compliance in people with diabetes at the Jetis 2 Community Health Center.

Methods: This study used an experimental pre-test post-test without control group design which was carried out from March to April 2022. The population was people with diabetes at Jetis 2 Health Center. The sample size was 40 people with diabetes using simple random sampling technique.

Results: The results showed that the intervention with the DSME pocket book had an effect on adherence to blood sugar control in people with diabetes at Jetis 2 Public Health Center where p value = 0, 000 (> 0.05).

Conclusion: Giving a DSME pocket book has an effect on adherence to blood sugar control with diabetes at Jetis 2 Community Health Center.
